Name: Karen Hyer

Office: U.S. Congress

District: Utah's Third Congressional District

E-mail address: info@hyerforcongress.com

Website: <http://www.hyerforcongress.com>

Age: 68

Occupation: BYU Professor (most recently)

Residence: Provo, Utah

Years at residence: 21 years residing in the 3rd district, in Provo, Utah

Qualifications: Karen Hyer is a wife, mother and grandmother offering unsurpassed real-life experience: she's been a teacher, top researcher, author, businesswoman, farmer, rancher, and BYU professor of business ethics, public administration and law. She's also accomplished a lot internationally.

Karen brought a seminal case to light when she stood up to corruption in government. Karen found cattle and crops dying on her ranch and uncovered a scheme where huge, powerful agribusinesses were donating to politicians, who in turn were subsidizing those interests at taxpayers' expense and looking the other way when those interests used federal canals to dump poison effluent on a wildlife refuge and the nearby family farms. Karen didn't back down. She put a stop to the devastation.

Karen knows that professional politicians in either party, primarily interested in their own political futures, are the real problem in Washington.

"My core values are conservative," says Karen, "but I'm an American first, not a professional politician. I'll have the political courage to fight government corruption, think outside the box, and work with others to find real solutions to our nation's challenging problems."

We need Karen to help grow our economy, ensure fiscal responsibility and bring ethics to government!
